PREMIUMIZATION

Premiumization is about consumers being willing to pay a premium for goods and services that are compatible with their lifestyles and values - one example being products having an elegant design crafted out of high-quality materials.

Banks around the world ride the "premiumization" wave by issuing metal cards. Through a combination of new technologies and changing consumer preferences, the usage of metal cards has evolved from the High-Net-Worth customer only, to the growing mass affluent segmentation.
